1 Introduction

We will be traveling via train from Poland to Scotland for our European road trip over seven days. You will see the two key spots, which also denote our beginning and end. With seven days ahead, 1767 miles, and many sights to see, this trip will be remarkable.

2 Total Mileage

We estimate that we will cover 1767 miles in total. We will be traveling via high-speed rail, which travels at an average of 150 km/h or 93mph. We will be traveling approximately 2.5-3 hours a day. Google map's estimates predict the trip to take 18 hours and 12 minutes.

$$1767 \text{ miles} = 93 \text{ mph} \cdot 19 \text{ hours}$$

4 Gryfino, Poland: Crooked Forest

Our adventure will start in Poland. Along with other beautiful scenery, the Crooked Forest is a must-see. Starting our first day here will get us off on a good foot. The crooked forest has been a mystery for ages: why are the trees shaped like that? Today, the mystery is still unsolved, no one knows why over 400 trees take a sharp 90 degree turn before growing upward, leaving this a fascinating, eerie, and unmissable destination spot.
